Hamil, New Teacher, Is Writer, Book Illustrator, Former Carmel Student

Thomas Hamil, fifth grade teacher at River School, is the author of two books for children, Brother Alonzo, published in 1957 and Hans and the Golden Flute released last year. He also illustrated both books.

On Tuesday Macmillan and Company released a third book. It is Bahombal Das, a collection of Pakistan folk tales written by Ashroff Siddique of Pakistan and illustrated by Mr. Hamil at the request of his publishers.

"I have been studying art all my life," says Thomas Hamil, who received his early elementary school education at Sunset School. He is the son of the late Arthur Charles Hamil, a Carmel Post Office employee during the early 30s, and of Mrs. Julia Florence Hamil, who first came to Carmel 10 years before then. He completed his elementary schooling in Pacific Grove and went to high school in San Francisco.

During World War II, Mr. Hamil served with the Navy in a submarine, then entered the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He left Annapolis in 1952, a few months before he was to graduate, because he realized he did not want to spend more time in the Navy. He completed his education and received a bachelor's degree in history from the University of San Francisco.

"All this time I was studying art," he remarks. While at Annapolis he took art courses at St. John's College and in San Francisco at the California School of Fine Arts.

His painting, he says, is subjective and could be analysed as expressionistic in style. He has had one-man shows in San Francisco at the Artists Cooperative Gallery, the Lucien Labaudt Gallery, Telegraph Hill and Theatre Arts Galleries, in the San Francisco Art Festival and the Grant Avenue Fair. He has also exhibited his work in group shows in the Bay area.

His wife Carolyn "paints when she feels like it," says Mr. Hamil. They are expecting their first child in three months time. This is his first year of teaching and he "loves it."

"It's wonderful, too, to be back in Carmel after years of wandering," he adds.

Dr. Bates Has Own Program To Keep Peninsula Green

Dr. Talcott Bates is replacing Monterey Peninsula's diminishing pine forest through a private reforestation program.

For some years past he has obtained seedling pines from the State Division of Forestry in lots of one thousand. He nurtures these tiny trees and plants them, not only on his own Jack's Peak acreage, but elsewhere in that area where reforestation is desirable.

"We also give live trees for Christmas presents," he says. These trees are not State Division of Forestry seedlings but saplings, two to three feet in height.

"Some of the Christmas trees are now 10 to 15 feet high," according to Dr. Bates. He mentioned with pride a stand of a dozen such trees on the Doner property in Carmel Highlands.

"Many of our Christmas present trees flourish, too, in well settled areas of Seaside, Pacific Grove, Monterey and Carmel," he added.

Dr. Bates obtains information on the care and planting of his seedlings from State Forester John Dowdakin. Last year, however, he had one disappointing project: A planting of 1,000 seedling trees died because of lack of rain. They were in an area on Jack's Peak

Adult Board Takes Action On Norberg Attack

At a special meeting, the adult board of the Carmel Youth Center and the youth center council, Tuesday afternoon, decided to address a letter to the Carmel City Council to meet with them, to present any constructive criticism they might have for the operation of the Carmel Youth Center. The letter will be accompanied with a copy of the Youth Center constitution and bylaws. The center is 10 years old and regarded as a model throughout the state for its successful fulfillment of youth center functions.

The meeting, and the action, are a result of Councilman Gunnar Norberg's attack on the Carmel Youth Center at last week's city council meeting when he said that lots of people "think the Youth Center should be under a church group or the Y.M.C.A.," that "lots of people think that this (the Youth Center) is not a proper program for youth," and that "the proper kind of moral restraints and ethical guidance are thought to be lacking."

Norberg refused to be more specific in his charges in spite of Mayor John Chitwood's and Patricia Hall's (member of the audience) indignant demands that he amplify his statements.

"The Youth Center is well run. I seriously question Norberg's charges," Councilman Allen Knight said, and Chitwood and Councilman James Buffington emphatically expressed the same conviction.

Norberg's apparently unjustified and irresponsible attack on an institution very dear to the heart of the community has created a wave of resentment against him, and weakened his leadership.

Library Board Raps Norberg Knuckles In Get-together With City Council

The annual "friendship" meeting of the Carmel Library Board and the Carmel City Council was held yesterday afternoon at the library at 5:00 o'clock. Coffee and cookies were served, also a polite reproof to Councilman Gunnar Norberg.

Library Board Chairman John Abernethy thanked the city council for its cooperation and support during the past year, specifically mentioning the new pathway, and the approval of the outdoor book drop soon to be installed. Then he suggested that when any member of the city council had a difference of opinion about the operation of the library, he should bring it to the library board and not to the library staff. The library staff merely carries out the policies established by the board.

In August, Councilman Gunnar Norberg, on his own and without council blessing, went to the library and demanded of the staff that they make a check on the qualifications of library card holders. Only residents of the city, or outside residents who pay city property taxes, or business license taxes, are entitled to free cards. Nonresidents and nontaxpayers must pay a fee of $7.00 a year for a card to give them complete borrowing privileges. Nonresidents may have a limited card free which entitles them to borrow county library books housed in the Carmel Library. Norberg felt that there were a substantial number of free card holders who were not qualified.

Mrs. Ruth Thornburg, librarian, hearing of Norberg's visit sent him

Art Festival Date Set; Objective: City Arts Center

Yesterday afternoon the Arts Commission set the date for the first Carmel Arts Festival. The event will start on Thursday of the second full week in October, 1960, and continue through Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Purpose of the festival, according to the statement of Chairman Maxine Albro (Mrs. Parker Hall), is to coordinate all local arts in an effort to establish a permanent Art Center in Carmel. The Art Center building, envisioned by Chairman Albro, would include a theater, art gallery, craft exhibition rooms and classrooms.

"Other small cities have such centers, why not Carmel?" she concluded.

Location of the 1960 Arts Festival was a matter for the Festival Coordinating Council to decide, arts commissioners thought.

Two locations for the Festival were suggested yesterday afternoon. Commissioner Nelo Drizari was in favor of centering the event in Sunset School. Peg Minor, chairman of the drama committee of the Festival Coordinating Council, urged that the Forest Theater be used as focus for the event.

"What could be more wonderful than a symphony at night in the Forest Theater?" she queried. A purpose of the Festival could be the renovation of the Forest Theater, she suggested, and stated in this respect that a new stage, lights, switchboard, dressing rooms, parking facilities, site clean-up and proper utilization of all available space on the city-owned Forest Theater property, were projects to be considered. She Mayor John Chitwood is concerned that the forest commission has no authority or serious function. It was one of his reasons for not wanting to appoint new members so that the commission could continue. The council insisted that the forest commission continue for the full term of its trial period to December 1961. So new members will be appointed.

We have a suggestion to allay the mayor's concern that the commission has no important duties. We suggest that the city council pass an ordinance which will require property owners to get a permit from the forest commission before they cut trees on their private property.

Yes, I know, the forest commission could not deny them the right to cut trees on their own property, nor could the council, but the council can require them to come before the commission before they do so. This would enable the forest commission to determine whether or not the property owner is preparing to cut city trees along with his own when he clears off his lot.

Boundary lines being what they are in Carmel, and no official check, we suspect more than one city tree has fallen in these forest clearing projects.

There are several legal reasons why such an ordinance would be valid: in the interest of health and safety (surely tree felling is a hazardous process) and in the interest of protecting city trees.

A property owner who knows he has to go before an official body before he clears off his lot perhaps will think a little more seriously as to whether or not he really needs to shave it bare; especially if the official body is likely to ask if such wholesale destruction is necessary. In any case, the city trees would not be cut down "inadvertently" because of lack of information on boundary line on the part of the property owner, and lack of proper check on the part of the city.

PUBLIC HEARING TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

CARMEL HIGH GRIDDERS WIN PAIR AT KING CITY

Gauging a narrow "cliff-hanger" win in the jayvee game and a 33-0 shutout in the varsity fracas, Carmel High's football squads picked up two important league wins at the expense of the King City Mustangs last Friday night at the valley gridiron. Coach Fred Rainer's spirited junior-varsity crew waited until the last 30 seconds before pulling the preliminary fust out of the fire for an 18-12 victory. Carmel's varsity moved its undefeated win skein to 22 games as it powered for five touchdowns against the scrappy Mustang eleven. With the wins over King City both the varsity and junior varsity teams from the Padre campus go into ties with Hollister for the CCAL B-division lead. While the Padres were getting over King City, the Haybalers won a pair from Pacific Grove, 6-0 in the jayvee game, and 28-7 in the varsity tilt.

King City put up a solid defense against the Padre varsity in the early part of the game and gave ground grudgingly to make the first quarter an even-up defensive battle. However, early in the second period, quarterback Frank Mayo lofted a 40-yard aerial to halfback Ron Faia and Carmel had six points on the board. Doyle Clayton toed the extra-point between the uprights to put the Padres in front, 7 to 0. Shortly after receiving the kickoff, the Mustangs fumbled deep in their own territory and Doug McClurg recovered for the Padres. Ron Faia hit paydirt as he took a reverse handoff from Mike Draper and followed the blocking of Nick Molitor and Toby Edson for the six-pointer. Clayton's kick was wide of the mark and at halftime the Padres were on top, 13 to 0. Putting severe pressure on the flanks, the Padres solved the Mustang defense in the second half and pushed over three touchdowns to salt the game away. Quarterback Frank Mayo scored twice on runs of 40 and 50 yards and passed to Toby Edson for the third score. Clayton made good on two of the three place-kick attempts.

Carmel's sturdy defensive unit was an instrumental factor in the convincing victory and gave the Padre offense plenty of chances to move the ball. The hard-tackling defensive crew kept the Mustangs outside the 30-yard line for the entire game and always came up with the big play whenever the hosts started to threaten. Led by linebackers Paul Rice and Fred Bucher, the front line doled out 57 yards on the ground to pretty well shackle the powerful King City single-wing attack. Defensive linemen Doug McClurg, Harrison Hilbert, Tim Mitchell, Chris Wilkin, Toby Edson, and Brian LeNeve were no strangers in the King City backfield and threw the Mustang ball carriers for vital losses.

Frank Mayo and Ron Faia were the chief ground-gainers for the Padres while the blocking of fullback Dave Hansen served to spring the Carmel backs. Toby Edson turned in a sparkling performance at his right end position, snaring several passes and doing a fine job of blocking.

King City's junior-varsity stung the Carmel jayvees by intercepting one of Frank Bucher's aeriels and returning it 45 yards for a quick score in the first period. The wounded Padre Babes came back to pick up a touchdown of their own in the third quarter only to see the 6-6 deadlock wiped out in the same heat as the Colts passed for another touchdown. A pass from Frank Bucher to Brook Scherman tied it up 12-12, and with time running out, John Draper galloped 50 yards to put the Babes in scoring position. A clever pass play from Bucher to Paul Jones gave Carmel the clincher as the final score showed Carmel in front, 18 to 12.

Danny Moore and John Draper were the workhorses for the Little Padres, carrying the ball 29 times and racking up 180 yards between them. Up front, it was the hard-charging veteran Tony Schaurrer who held the Carmel defense together. The little junior made over half of the tackles for his team and led the offensive plays from his pulling guard spot.

PADRE JAYVEES HOST LIVE OAK ACORNS THIS SATURDAY

Coach Ami Leso brings his Live Oak High varsity to Bardarson Field this Saturday afternoon for a joust with Fred Rainer's junior-varsity squad. In a 12:00 o'clock preliminary tussle, Hadley Hicks' Carmel lightweights will match blocks and tackles with the Live Oak junior-varsity eleven. The Live Oak varsity cancelled out the varsity teams from Gilroy, Hollis-

a glass of beer
is many things

The ranch house is a symbol of California life, and so is a glass of beer—it belongs with good living, because it's the perfect light refreshment.

And California agrees beer is more than refreshment. It's a vital force in a growing economy. In 1958, for example, state taxes paid by the Brewing Industry came to more than $27 million. In most areas that's enough money to build at least nine new high schools for 1200 students each—just one more reason why beer means better living for Californians.

Johonnot Show At Carmel Foundation

An exhibit of paintings by the late Ralph Helm Jhonnot opened at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Monday, and will be shown throughout the month.

Ralph H. Jhonnot came to Carmel in 1912 after 14 years as director of the department of design and color at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, New York. After leaving Pratt he spent some years traveling from coast to coast, lecturing and teaching classes in design and color as applied to interior decoration, dress design, flower arrangement, landscape gardening and painting. Each summer during this period he came to Carmel where students who had worked under him during the winter in various cities joined him to study and practice landscape painting.

After classes Mr. Jhonnot's greatest pleasure was to paint the scenery of the Monterey Peninsula. Shown in this exhibit are two of the earliest of this series of paintings, Where the Blue Bird Sings and Zinnias, and the last, known as Moonlight Sonata. Another early one is the studio in Pacific Grove where most of his work was done. The embroidered panels shown were designed by Mr. Jhonnot and executed under Ellen Haddeus, supervisor at the Wald Fogel Studio. The handwork is that of Salome L. Jhonnot, wife of the artist, through whose cooperation and interest this exhibition has been hung. Friends and all interested persons are invited to see the pictures during Town House hours, 10:00 to 5:00 o'clock Monday through Friday, during October.

RALPH JACOBS EXHIBITION

An exhibition of oil paintings by Ralph Jacobs will be on display in the Windjammer Room of the Mark Thomas Inn on Sunday afternoon from 2:00-6:00 o'clock. Admission is by invitation only.

Jacobs is a 19-year-old painter who came here to live several months ago. He has studied summers with Abel Warshawsky and at present attends life drawing classes at Monterey Peninsula College and Carmel Adult School.

Two of his paintings, done in his early teens, are part of the permanent exhibition of Beirut University, Lebanon. He is of Armenian ancestry, born and educated in Fresno. Two of his paintings are owned by George Mardikian.

SCRAMP Contributes $14,000 To Local Charities This Year

Dates for the fall Laguna Seca Sports Car Road Races are October 24 and 25. According to L. M. "Sparky" Pollard, SCRAMP president, a record number of early entries attest to Laguna Seca's claim of "being among the top two or three race courses in the nation."

Checks totaling $1,483.30 were presented last week by the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula to members of various community charity and service organizations. In the last year, SCRAMP has contributed more than $14,000 to Peninsula groups.

SCRAMP, whose membership is comprised of community-minded businessmen from throughout the area, is a volunteer organization founded for the purpose of bringing top-flight sports car racing to the Monterey Peninsula for the benefit of local charities. After the costs of constructing the race course at Laguna Seca have been paid off, all net proceeds of the twice-a-year event will go to charity.

Included on the list of recipients this year were:

Carmel Lions Club, Peninsula

*You spread the wings that February night
Your genius' child was hailed with hiss and jeer.
Despairing, pale, you strode in bitter plight,
Your artist-heart engulfed with sob and tear.
The catcalls gave La Scala throngs delight.
They soared to balcony and chandelier.
Your soul was stricken with a sudden blight.
How ridiculed the score you held so dear!*

BIKE RIDE

*Breastless, frail, thin-faced,
You are the leader.
That should give you pleasure.
Your bike is out in front,
Away from where the boys,
Lush breasts, and laughter are.
Head up, you make the rise
Because you must.
You have not lost an inch—
Still far ahead of laughter,
Tan, soft-undulating limbs.
But down the hill,
You seem to slump,
Run heavily across the ruts,
As though your spirit trickled free.
Is there account for this—
This sudden change?
Were you so light,
So sure,
A moment past,
Or struggling till the dreadful weight
Burst from its prison in your heart?*

ONE INDIAN SUMMER EVENING

(Irene played Chopin)

*In smoky dream, old Jolyon sat beside Irene in the gleam of rosewood and drank his grail of all lost summer's nectar. Nor need confide his light illusion, while golden, and flower pale she wove a substance that danced in pools of fire, dry as sheaths of iris with late perfume.
And Balthasar with mystery watched his sire make shadowy thought upon a shadowy loom.*

*Mauve field, and storks; one star upon a horn dropped fragrance like lost rose, and summer wine, as on the rosewood her fingers straightly flew like silver doves swift gleaming temporal dew;
impressions perfect—bouquet of muscadine:
spent smoke. No more. Old Jolyon did not mourn!*

FROM A
LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Our new books seem to be top-heavy with biography this week, so we hope you are yearning for biography. Above All the Shephard, a biography of Pope John XXIII, is by Ugo Groppi and Julius Lombardi, both professors at Seton Hall University. Ugo Groppi has known the present Pope since the age of 13, and thus he was able to write a sympathetic and intimate story of the Pope's life. There are also biographies of Mary Shelley, Fidel Castro, and John Newland Maffitt, the captain of the cruiser Florida during the Civil War. Check for authors of these books on the list posted on the bulletin board. Dear me, we do hope you are all for biography this week.

Vincent Price did a switcheroo on the old one about knowing what you like, and entitled his new book I Like What I Know. It is classed as biography, but it is a visual autobiography, because it is his life as it relates to art and the collecting of art. He says he is a pushover with round heels where art is concerned and will always be a collector. We hope he writes more books because he has a light and entertaining touch on the typewriter.

The Scandalous Scamps is the story of a number of swindlers and fraudulent dealers who made fortunes by bilking their fellow-men. The book was written by Harold Mehling who is a resident of Ossining, New York, where reside several of the persons mentioned in his book. In Sing Sing, that is.

The art of smocking has always been popular in fashioning clothing for small children of the female variety. Recently it has begun a comeback in clothing for women and girls, and for this reason we have a book on it by Chella Thornton. We were surprised when we examined the book because it seems there are no patterns for smocking. There are only rows and rows of dots. The artistry comes in the various ways the dots are connected with stitchery. The book is most sensibly called The Smocking Book.

For parents of children of five years and under, we have a book by Selma Frajberg entitled The Magic Years. It tells you how to understand and handle the problems of childhood from birth to school age. The author has been working with children for several years. She now has a two-year-old child of her own.

And so we come to the end of another column, another batch of books, another week. Need we invite you to come to the library for good reading?

Nick Zanides, New Production Manager For Circle Theatre

The addition of a full-time production manager to the Golden Bough Circle Theatre staff brings to Carmel a young man named Nick Zanides, formerly of Seattle, Washington. Nick is a recent graduate of the University of Washington Drama School, from which he holds a master's degree. Previously he obtained a B.A. in economics from the same university.

With him comes his wife, Beth, and twin children, Mark and Linda, aged 10. They are happy to become residents of Carmel, after many years of big-city living.

Acting has been Nick's major concern for the past seven years, during which he appeared in many plays at the Penthouse, Showboat and Playhouse theaters in Seattle, as guest artist at Utah State College, in two off-Broadway productions in New York, on radio, television, and as a touring puppeteer. Having broadened his training to include all phases of play production and theater management, he will now assume a predominantly backstage role at the Circle. His presence is designed to free managing director Frederick Rider for more work on overall development and financing of the Golden Bough.

WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

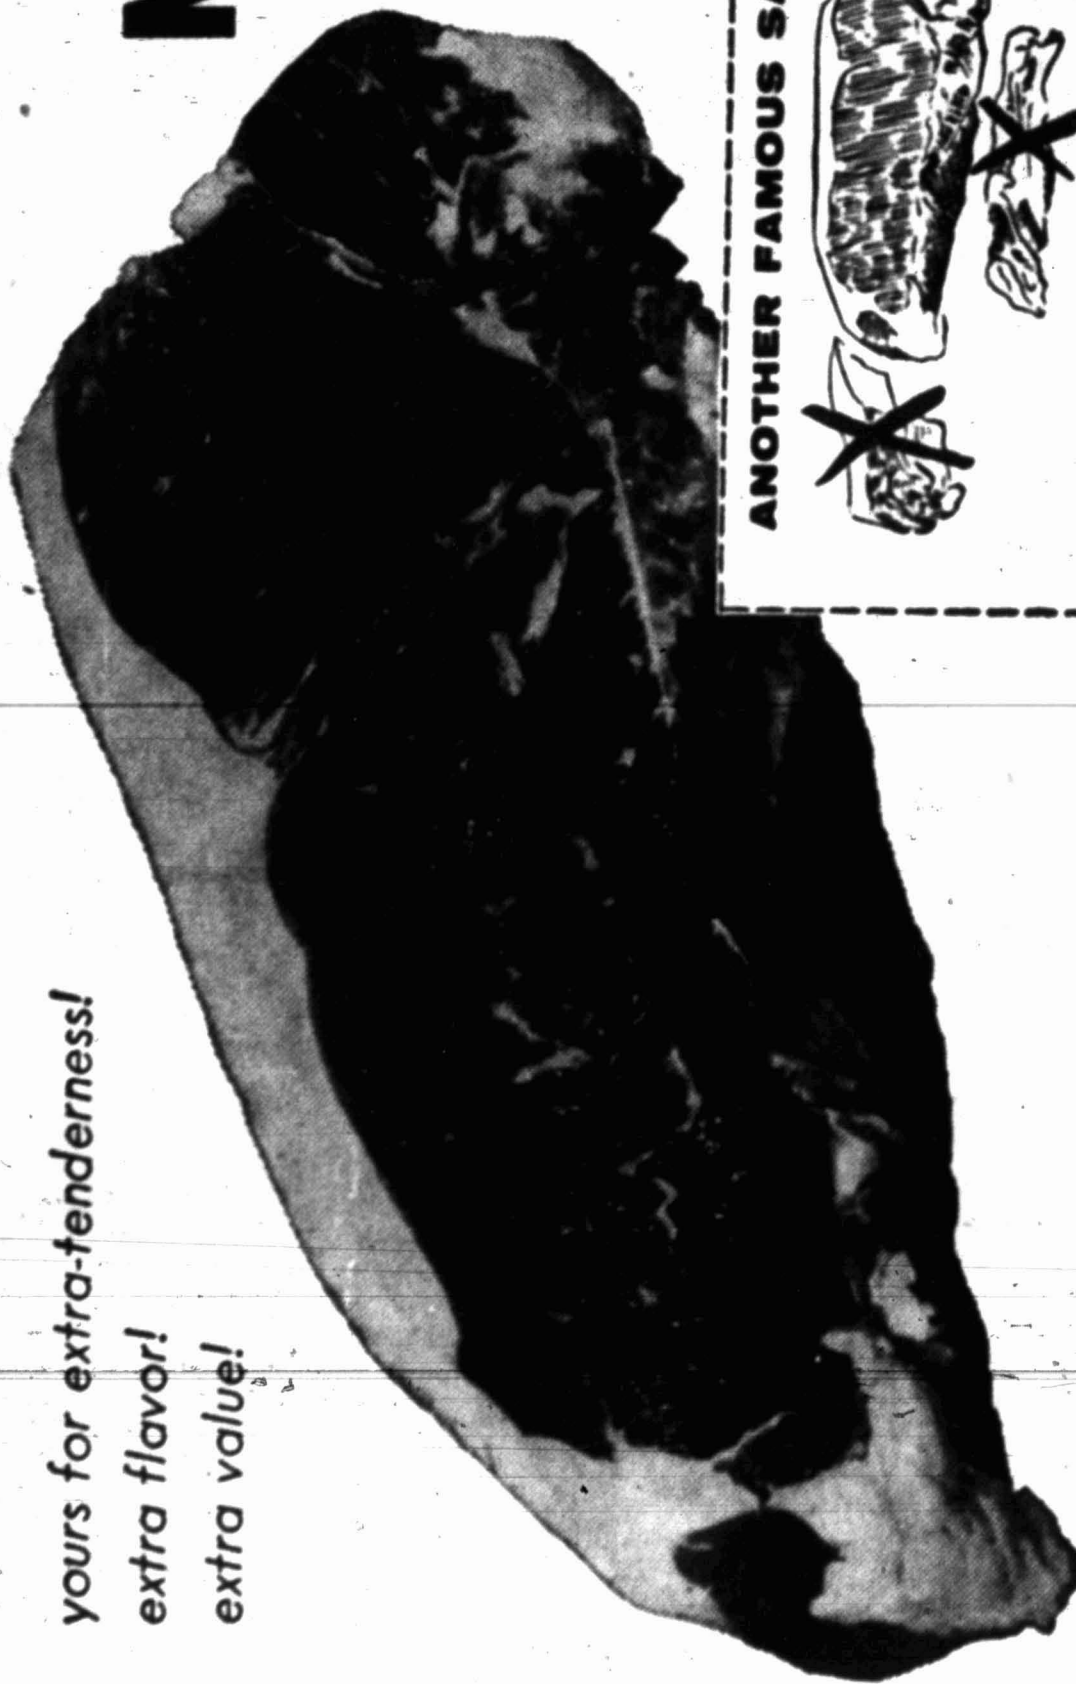

This is a "switchboard on wheels"—a complete telephone central office built right into a big truck trailer. Its job is to help phone people keep vital calls going through during emergencies. You see, we can send these switchboards on wheels wherever they're needed and hook them up to hundreds of phone lines in a matter of hours. Then operators work right from these trailers, keeping important calls going—fire, police, hospital, civil defense, and such. It's one way we work to keep phone service ready when it's needed most.

Tobey Lynn Baugh, age 3, daughter of Bob Baugh, outside representative in the Monterey Business Office, is shown completely fascinated with a new colored telephone. Why don't you try one?

Bald Soprano At Studio Banishes Reservations About Entertainment Value Of Experimental Theatre

BY VIRGINIA SHAW

The stage of Eugene Ionesco, the Rumanian-born contemporary French playwright, is something like the Hall of Mirrors in the Fun House: a gallery in which one is presented with images—some grotesque, lugubrious, or frightening, some absurdly comical—of himself and his pretensions. In the one-act plays The Chairs and The Bald Soprano, form and content are similarly distorted; Ionesco plays hob with the conventions of the theater as well as one's conventional attitudes towards it.

The Ionesco double bill inaugurates both a new managing director, Richard Bailey, and a new policy at The Studio: to present "quality theater" covering the full range from classical to contemporary and experimental drama. On the basis of this opening presentation, theatergoers can anticipate some exciting, stimulating and genuinely creative experiences from the new arrangement.

In the current attraction, Mr. Bailey and a highly skilled group of actors successfully present two different, if equally difficult, examples of Ionesco's experimentalism. The Chairs, which the playwright describes as "a tragic farce," expresses the pathetic emptiness, loneliness and futility of man's dreams and delusions, personified by an old couple who play host to an imagined horde of dignitaries come to hear the old man's message to the world delivered by an orator who, ironically, turns out to be mute. The Bald Soprano, on the other hand, is a riotous satire of a drawing-room comedy, an explosion of conventional conversational balloons. Of the two plays, it is this one in which the Studio company shines most brightly. The Bald Soprano is the funniest play to be seen here in a long time, and should demolish any reservations about the entertainment value of experimental theater.

In this "anti-play," two proper Victorian couples in a proper Victorian parlor engage in exchanges of utterly witless banalities, trivia and pure nonsense. They are joined by the inevitable maid and improbable fire chief, each of whom contribute additional flourishes of absurdity. The scene culminates with the two couples, the Smiths and the Martins, in a verbal-cutting session which accelerates to a maniacally funny antiphony of words, sounds and slogans. As a postlude to this unforgettably goofy climax, the play ends precisely as it begins, with the second couple launched on the same suffocating clichés with which the first couple opened.

The cast brings off this giddy parody with great style and a high sense of fun. Rachel Hoffman stands out with a perfectly timed, deliciously mannered performance as Mrs. Smith. Her colleagues are Cliff Berry as her bookish, boorish husband, Sheila Goldes as the archly aristocratic Mrs. Martin, Joe Dagleish as pompous Mr. Martin, Mary Ann Bushore as the caricature of all "pert maids," and Russ Eddy as the amiable, addled fire chief. They are all excellent, and the production is set with humor and imagination.

The Chairs, which occupies the first half of the bill, is a considerably more difficult proposition than The Bald Soprano, demanding little less than a tour-de-force of acting by the two principals as well as extremely artful staging. In this case, the Studio production does not entirely come off, although Rachel Hoffman and Russ Eddy do commendable work in the highly demanding roles of the two ancient recluses, with Joe Dagleish as the Orator. It can be expected that the performance and production will "jell" and acquire greater depth and pace in the course of the run. As it is, The Chairs is nevertheless an absorbing experience, a strangely beautiful play overlaid with bitter mockery.

Richard Bailey has not disappointed the many who have followed his ambitious and exciting work as a director with increasing appreciation and respect, and under his leadership, The Studio can be expected to more than fulfill its announced promise of quality theater. In the current production, presented by Hackett and Martin, Mr. Bailey is capably assisted by Maria Hallsted, costumer, Cliff Berry, house manager, and Joe Dagleish, stage manager.

The Ionesco doubleheader is on stage at The Studio each Thursday through Sunday night with curtain at 8:30 o'clock. It is a bill so unusually interesting that it merits being seen not once, but twice during its six-week run.

Music On The Peninsula

By Philip Holyoake

Those who attended the concert at All Saints' Episcopal Church last Sunday afternoon enjoyed an outstanding musical experience.

The large audience was most enthusiastic in their appreciation of the artistic work of the string trio, composed of the Reverend Harold Nicholas, violin; John Erickson, violin; Louise Vadetsky, cello, and Angie Machado, piano.

The artists seemed to enjoy themselves in their music making as much as the audience in their listening. There was a zest and freshness in their work which communicated itself to the listener.

The soloist was Norma Jean Scott. Miss Scott possesses a remarkable soprano voice that enraptures by its sheer beauty. It is completely flexible and full of color. She has that rare ability to visualize a song with all its human emotion. Few singers learn this. Those who do are artists.

Miss Machado at the piano gave something which amounted to more than a beautifully played accompaniment. She is a very capable pianist with an affinity for ensemble playing.

Deirdre Carney Wed Saturday
The soft glow of lighted tapers in tall branched candelabra fell on two brass bowls filled with white chrysanthemums which stood on the altar of All Saints' Episcopal Church on Saturday morning when Deirdre Pamela Carney was married to Harry M. Baxter. The Reverend David Hill performed the ceremony which took place at 10:00 o'clock and was attended by family members and friends.

Deirdre was given in marriage by her father, Robert Carney. Over her princess style pale blue brocade gown which had a fold of satin defining the Empire waistline, she wore a short fitted jacket of the same material as her dress. The white orchid in her hair matched her white shoes. She was attended by the sister-in-law of the groom, Mrs. Murray Baxter, whose husband served as best man for his brother.

Following the wedding, the bride and groom cut their wedding cake and were toasted in champagne at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baxter, then left for a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. They will live in Carmel in a cottage at Second Avenue and Santa Fe Street.

Deirdre graduated from Sunset School and Carmel High School and is now studying for the second year at Monterey Peninsula College.

Harry also is a graduate of Carmel High School. He attended Monterey Peninsula College and is now associated in business with his father.

James Holman

James Holman, father of Arthur Holman, music instructor at Sunset School, died on Sunday night of a heart attack in his home at Lobos Street and First Avenue. He came to live in Carmel five months ago. For 13 years prior to this he had lived in Santa Cruz.

Mr. Holman was born in Lis-card, England, on April 7, 1881. His marriage took place in Plymouth, England, on January 17, 1904. He and his wife came to the United States and settled in San Francisco where Mr. Holman, for 25 years, was a motorman with the Market Street Railway Company. He retired in 1943. Both he and his wife, Blanche, were naturalized American citizens.

Besides his wife and son, both living in Carmel, Mr. Holman is survived by a brother and sister, William Holman and Mrs. Bessie Eddy, who live in Saltash, England; and three grandchildren, James Arthur, Daniel William and Victoria Kay Holman, all of Carmel.

Graveside funeral services were held yesterday morning in Mission Memorial Park with the Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, officiating.

Coach Ray Gere's hard-working team holds wins over Santa Cruz and Gonzales and have dropped decisions to Salinas and Watsonville. Next on the docket for the Carmel squad is the smooth-stroking Pacific Grove gang which is sparked by undefeated Barry Baskin.

"Chops" Chakrahndhu picked up Carmel's only singles win against the Wildcats, beating Watsonville's Steve Batchelder, 6-3, 6-2. Chris Keeble and Jeff Bannister salvaged a doubles win as they paired up to outstroke the Wildcat's Hedgpath and Dupuy, 6-2, 6-2.

Dr. Bates Has Own Program To Keep Peninsula Green

where no water was available to irrigate the seedlings. In a normal year the majority of them would have survived.

"It's about time to get another 1,000 seedlings," Dr. Bates said yesterday. "I've planted all but a few of the last lot." He is also eyeing numerous young sapling pines on the new Peninsula Community Hospital site. He doesn't want them destroyed when building commences.

Library Board Raps Norberg's Knuckles

ary budget for the year, divide it by the number of circulations, and find out the cost per circulation. This is true because a library fulfills so many functions which are not circulation. This library does a large service to the community with its reference services. Its interlibrary loan service is most valuable to writers especially. One of its very valuable services to the community is a home-away-from-home to all the retired people who practically live in the library every day of the week, reading magazines and newspapers, and getting away from their own small fire-sides. I point this out because I believe that we are sometimes prone to overevaluate the card-holding phase of our work and to underestimate the immense value of the library as a social and cultural center for a town of this type."

The matter came before the city council and Mayor John Chitwood expressed his disapproval of what he termed Norberg's interference with library affairs.

Yesterday afternoon's request from Chairman Abernethy that suggestions and criticisms be brought directly to the library board set Norberg gunning at another target. He questioned Carmel taxpayers' having to pay a five cent county library tax when they already pay city taxes to support their own library.

Library board members pointed out that city taxpayers' five cent county library tax raises $5000 a month revenue for the county library. In return the county buys $5000 worth of books a year for the Carmel Library, pays the Carmel Library $90 a month rent for housing and circulating county books.

In this way, Carmel Library gets $6900 from the county. Carmel taxpayers are $1000 ahead on the five cent county library tax.

Norberg then said the school district should contribute to the support of the Carmel Library since any student in the school district is issued a free library card.

Library Board Member Donald Craig said emphatically that any child in the school district should have a free card. There is enough "illiteracy" as it is; anything that would help alleviate it had his support.

Librarian Thornburg pointed out that the student cards were limited to juvenile material. "Nobody is going to get a copy of Lolita out of the library on such a card."

Norberg said he'd heard from a teacher that there are 1,000 teachers, most of them nonresidents of Carmel, who have free library cards.

Donald Craig said "Rot."

Norberg got no support for his projects and proposals from his fellow councilmen.

Albert Lester told the city council that the library has long been in need of additional space. After the disposal of the Adney Property (property willed to the library by the late Francis Adney) the library board would "start talking about providing more room."

also advocated employment of a permanent stage manager at the Forest Theater and that there should be adequate caretaker provision for the property.

In response, Commissioner Ruth Cooke asked that Festival Coordinating Council Chairman Charles Thomas prepare estimates of work necessary to ready the Forest Theater for Festival use.

"We will then have something to present to the council before their budget session next May," Mrs. Cooke said. Chairman Hall stressed that the city council had already indicated it would give financial support to the Arts Festival.

The second-week-in-October date for the Art Festival was decided on after much discussion. Commissioner Gilbert Boyer thought the event should be held when permanent residents could fully participate in the event. Chairman Hall remarked that many Carmel artists were in Europe during the summer but back home by October. Harold Smithson, chairman of the art committee of the Festival Coordinating Council, said his group favored late September or early October. Commissioner Vaughn Shoemaker thought an October date would give the coordinating council ample time to prepare an Arts Festival. Commissioner Drizari strongly favored Thanksgiving weekend. He thought Sunset School would be available at this time; the "rush" season was over and motels would not be crowded; this date would be "good for business;" and ended by stating, "what could be more American than Thanksgiving weekend."

Commissioner Cooke thought Thanksgiving "a little late." Many residents are away from Carmel at Thanksgiving as it is a "family time," she added. Peg Minor pointed out that "the Christmas rush" commences at Thanksgiving and implied that families and merchants would be more concerned with Thanksgiving and preparations for Christmas than an Arts Festival.

Four days were decided upon as the length of the Arts Festival rather than a week. "We must not have the first Festival too long," said Chairman Albro, "we don't want people to get bored."

To facilitate Festival planning, arts commissioners yesterday afternoon appointed two delegates to coordinating council meetings. They are Commissioners Albro and Geza St. Galy.

These commissioners will "not dictate but help" was the decision of the commission. The appointments arose from the statement of Commissioner Cooke that, as the Arts Commission has no permanent chairman, there was a lack of continuity in liaison matters between the commission and coordinating council. She urged that a permanent arts commission chairman be appointed. (Now arts commissioners rotate the chairmanship alphabetically, each serving as chairman for one month.)

Commissioner Drizari opposed this suggestion. He thought it logical to continue the rotation basis until December when the arts commission completes its first year of existence and two commissioners appointed for a one-year term, Laurence Barretto and Mrs. Cooke, will be replaced or reappointed. Then a permanent chairman should be appointed, he thought.

Chairman Albro indicated that the rotation basis initiated because none of the present arts commissioners wanted to be permanent chairman. She admitted that rotating chairmen left the coordinating council "in a fix." Commissioner Drizari thought, rather than a permanent chairman, a member of the arts commission should attend coordinating council meetings "to guide the council." The matter was resolved by appointing the two delegates.

During the lengthy discussion of this matter, the agenda was suspended to allow Dr. Thomas Barrows to present to arts commissioners possible suggestions for establishing an artist-in-residence plan for Carmel. He spoke to arts commissioners at the request of Commissioner Boyer.

Carrying etchings which he circulated through the commission, Dr. Barrows described how he had established an artist-in-residence project 25 years ago at Lawrence College with the aid of a Carnegie grant.

He stated that "Carmel was suitable to such an experiment," and could establish a "pilot" program of this nature for other small communities to follow. He suggested that a five-year Ford Foundation adult education grant might be obtained for an artist-in-residence project in Carmel, and "It is easier to get money for a new idea," Dr. Barrows said.

Commissioner Drizari could see no relation between academic and city artist-in-residence projects. He thought the adult education program should initiate such a venture here.

Dr. Barrows countered with the remark, "Adult education administrators are not broadly experienced in the field of art," and added, "it takes more than a high school faculty," referring to establishing an artist-in-residence project.

"You are a good press agent for Lawrence College," said Mr. Drizari and discussion ended. Commissioners, however, reluctant to drop the artist-in-residence project suggested originally by Councilman Gunnar Norberg, appointed a sub-committee, headed by Commissioner Boyer and to include Commissioner Cooke, Councilman Norberg and townspeople selected by Mr. Boyer. This committee will study possibilities of establishing a Carmel artist-in-residence project.

AMERICAN EXPRESS CARDS HONORED

High on a hill, in a beautiful landscaped setting of flowers and trees, that is reminiscent of the original Carmel. We have a variety of clean, tastefully furnished, individual Cottages from one to three bedrooms, each in its own flowery setting. All have modern completely equipped kitchens and private baths. All heat is thermostatically controlled and vented. Some fireplaces, some private patios. Off-street parking for all cars, mostly covered—space for your extra car too!

Here you may enjoy your stay in complete privacy, minus the annoying closeness of neighbors.

Visitors are always welcome to browse through our grounds, see our beautiful flowers, or just rest in one of our patios. No pets please.

All of our cottages are at ground floor level, we do not have efficiency apartments, all cottages have full size bedrooms, with nothing to pull down, pull up or take apart before you can retire. Our kitchens are complete, matched china, toaster, silverware, utensils, ranges with ovens and broilers, and of course a modern refrigerator.

We do not have executive suites, lanais, pools, room phones, T. V. or other luxuries. That would of necessity, greatly increase our rates. Should we have a vacancy, we would be glad to show you, and quote rates. Reservations are always advisable. Due to our many advance bookings we cannot offer monthly rates. Attractive or otherwise.
